STRANGE STORY

European Syndicate Trying to Control the World's Fair

CHICAGO, March 3. The News of this morning says: Strange as the proposition may seem, rumor has it that an English or European syndicate has in view the obtaining of the control of the World's Fair, for the profit there may be in it. Baron Edward Rothschild is said to be in this country to make a preliminary survey of the ground. It was with the presumption that New York would get the fair that this branch of the house of Rothschild sailed from England, and on this presumption the syndicate had reckoned for success. Though the difficulty of obtaining control of the fair has been immensely increased by its location at Chicago the Baron has not given up the alleged purpose of his visit.
